

Teambuilder

The #1 Marketplace for Independent Subcontractors to Access Larger Projects

Teambuilder is the only Global Platform which helps Independent Consultants access larger scale projects working with medium to large consultancies, as an independent contributor, to an existing team for the duration of a project.

PRINCETON, NJ. Consulting Quest's newest Platform, Teambuilder, is an online marketplace filled with opportunities for independent consultants to showcase and match their skills with projects from medium to large consultancies for much lower referral fees than are currently being offered today.

Teambuilder gives independent consultants a chance to bid on larger projects and work in a team setting all while expanding their existing network of connections. It provides independent consultants an opportunity to increase their workload and maximize the value of their skills and expertise without overloading themselves on Business Development activities.

Our premium marketplace will host only the most qualified team members vetted by our proprietary methodology, ConPAS, utilizing voice of the customer feedback based on past project performance. We are leveling the playing field by having a granular evaluation of their skills, attitude and fit giving them a better chance to win projects and perform better on engagements.

"One of the difficult challenges of being an independent consultant is managing the balance between servicing your current clientele without negatively impacting your ability to generate new clients," said Helene Laffitte, CEO of Consulting Quest and former independent consultant, "If you excel at what you do, Teambuilder will provide access to large accounts beyond your existing network."

Are you looking for interesting projects? Create your profile today at <https://teambuilder.consultingquest.com/> and start your search for more opportunities.

You can also e-mail us directly at Teambuilder@consultingquest.net.

About Teambuilder

Teambuilder is the first global marketplace specialized in providing consultancies and independent consultants alike a shared location to communicate their project team needs and pair it with the right skills and expertise. The platform is designed to streamline the search process for bringing on consultants to strengthen your team and win more projects.

About Consulting Quest

Consulting Quest is a global, performance-driven consulting platform founded in 2014 by former members of top 10 consulting firms with the objective of reinventing consultancy performance. With a worldwide presence and a range of proprietary performance measurement tools, we help companies navigate the consulting maze. We work with Consulting Clients to increase their performance through consulting and Consulting Providers to help them acquire new clients and to improve their performance.